Note The year-to-year changes shown in this table are not all of equal significance. The total amount reported by any one class of institution from any one class of donor drives, the timing of corporate and foundation programs, large bequests and other non-recurring influences. This is particularly true of the smaller groups of institutions. Of the 48 entries in the body of the table show changes of 15% or more, of these 22 large changes, 13 of them involve amounts of less than $10 million and/or fewer than 10 institutions. This is primarily attributable to one large gift to a single institution from a single donor. For example, support from "other groups and sources" to major private universities is of a non-recurring nature, without this item, the year-to-year change in this entry would be -29.0%. On the other hand, it appears that at least half of all the entries are so large that the percentage change involved is sufficiently big, to ensure that the percentage change is meaningful. The row and column totals are likewise statistically significant.

donor significance. The total amount reported by any one class of institution from any one class of donor is subject to erratic behavior due to major fund-raising efforts and other non-recurring influences. This is particularly true of the smaller groups of institutions and the smaller dollar figures. Thus, 22 out of the 25 large changes, 13 of them involve amounts of less than $10 million and/or fewer than 30 colleges. In other instances, the year-to-year change is due to a single donor. For example, support from "other groups and sources" to major private universities in 1969-70 included one $21 million item of a single entry would be 29.0%. On the other hand, it appears that at least half of all the entries are sufficiently large, and the number of institutions is meaningful. The row and column totals are likewise statistically significant.

D. CURRENT FUNDS UP SHARPLY

The increase of total voluntary support in 1970-71 appears to have been due entirely to expanded support for current operations; support for capital purposes decreased for the second year in a row. In terms of specific applications, the largest increase was achieved by funds earmarked for research.

1. Total voluntary support is reported broadly by purpose in terms of support for current operations and support for capital purposes. As shown in Table 6, current support increased 4.9% while capital support (which includes endowment funds) decreased 1.1% in 1970-71. The historical division of total voluntary support according to these two broad purposes is:

	Current Operations	Capital Purposes
1960-61	48.5%	51.5%
1962-63	47.9%	52.1%
1964-65	43.1%	56.9%

1969-70	53.4%	46.6%
1970-71	55.3%	44.7%

It will be noted that support for current operations has tended to rise, and support for capital purposes has tended to fall, in relative importance. The 55.3% shown for current support in 1970-71 is the highest level on record. Furthermore, an examination of the dollar figures actually reported indicates that total

TRENDS IN PRINCIPAL PURPOSES OF SUPPORT

In the past six years there has emerged a distinct change in pattern of voluntary support per institution by purpose. Although these changes have been mostly by the slow-down in total support since 1968-69, they are clearly discernible on the accompanying

The most important of these concerns support given for physical plant — funds for the purchase, construction, improvement, operation and maintenance of buildings, grounds, equipment and other facilities. Support for this purpose, which rose more than 13% per year prior to 1964-65, has shown no growth whatever in the past six years. In fact, the 1970-71 figure is 8.3% less than the amount reported in 1964-65. Since this is one of the principal categories of support for capital purposes, this observation is consistent with the fact that support for current operations has been responsible for all of the growth in total voluntary support since 1964-65.

A second important change is a turnaround in support earmarked for faculty and staff compensation. In the eight years prior to 1966-67, support had risen 8.6% per year on the average, which is roughly parallel to the rate of growth of total voluntary support. Since 1966-67, however, gifts for this purpose have decreased 20%, and as a share of total voluntary support, are at the lowest level ever recorded.

The other categories shown have

TRENDS IN PRINCIPAL PURPOSES OF SUPPORT

In the past six years there has emerged a distinct change in the pattern of voluntary support per institution by purpose. Although these changes have been modified by the slow-down in total support since 1968-69, they are clearly discernible on the accompanying chart.

The most important of these concerns support given for physical plant — funds for the purchase, construction, improvement, operation and maintenance of buildings, grounds, equipment and other facilities. Support for this purpose, which rose more than 13% per year prior to 1964-65, has shown no growth whatever in the past six years. In fact, the 1970-71 figure is 8.3% less than the amount reported in 1964-65. Since this is one of the principal categories of support for capital purposes, this observation is consistent with the fact that support for current operations has been responsible for all of the growth in total voluntary support since 1964-65.

A second important change is the turnaround in support earmarked for faculty and staff compensation. In the eight years prior to 1966-67 such support had risen 8.6% per year on the average, which is roughly parallel to the rate of growth of total voluntary support. Since 1966-67, however, gifts for this purpose have decreased 20%, and as a share of total voluntary support, are at the lowest level ever recorded.

The other categories shown have maintained relatively stable growth patterns. This is especially true of gifts in support of student aid. Such gifts, on a per institution basis, declined very slightly in 1970-71. In prior years, however, student aid support had increased every year and had maintained a fairly steady rate of growth. In the ten years ending 1966-67, this growth averaged more than 10% per year. Support designated for this purpose has since increased to about as large a share of total support, 13.5%, as at any time in the history of this Survey.

Support earmarked for basic research has fluctuated in both dollars per institution and as a share of total voluntary support, but it has followed a more or less steady upward trend. Such support increased 9.4% in 1970-71, which exceeds the increases in all other categories.

Unrestricted support, which has perennially accounted for about one-third of total support, reached a record level in 1970-71 in terms of dollars per institution. In the past six years however, such support has risen at an average rate of only 2.5% per year, as compared to an average of 13.6% in the six years ending 1964-65.

Voluntary support for all other purposes not shown separately increased generally in line with total support until 1968-69. In that year there was a 44% jump in these categories, and since then the "other purposes" have accounted for about one-sixth of the total versus one-eighth in prior years.

support for capital purposes has remained relatively constant, at about $700 million, in every year since 1964-65. This implies that all the increase in total voluntary support during the last six years has been due to increased giving for current operations.

2. The relative importance of support for current and capital purposes varies greatly from one class of institution to another. These divisions and their changes in the past two years are shown in Table 7.

With the exception of private professional and specialized institutions and the two groups of public colleges and universities, every class of institution received relatively more for current operations, and less for capital purposes, in 1970-71 than in 1969-70.

Among the various groups of contributors there is a similar variation. Table 8 reflects the division for all institutions in the Survey, including colleges and universities, secondary and elementary schools, and the institutions outside the U.S.

3. In broad terms, about one-third of voluntary support is unrestricted as to use, and about two-thirds is earmarked for various specific purposes. In 1970-71, unrestricted grants and gifts increased 4.3% over 1969-70, and gained fractionally as a percentage of the total. Most of the gain resulted from increased giving in this category by individuals, especially alumni; there were decreases in unrestricted support from foundations, corporations, and miscellaneous sources. And the bulk of the increased support of this type was reported by the private coeducational colleges and state-controlled colleges and universities.
4. The largest year-to-year increase in restricted giving was in funds earmarked for research. Support designated for this purpose increased 13.1% in 1970-71. All categories of donors increased their giving in this area, with the greatest increase coming from non-alumni individuals. And with the exception of private women's colleges, all institutional classes reported increased receipts for this purpose.

5. Support designated for faculty compensation decreased 11.0% from 1969-70 to 1970-71. Foundations increased their giving for this purpose, but all other donor categories provided less support in this category. The largest decrease was reported by the major private universities, but there were significant decreases posted also by the municipal colleges and secondary schools; gains were reported by private coeducational colleges, professional and specialized institutions, state colleges and universities, and junior and community colleges.
6. The year-to-year changes in the other restricted categories of support were fairly small and had relatively little impact on the percentage distribution of support by purpose. Support designated for physical plant decreased a further 3.9% in 1970-71 after a very significant decline in 1969-70. The decrease was widespread among all classes of recipients and all categories of donors. Funds earmarked for student aid rose 1.5%, primarily due to alumni giving for this purpose and primarily of benefit to public colleges and universities. All other designated gifts and grants increased 2.7%, virtually all of which was accounted for by increased giving by non-alumni individuals to public institutions.

E. OTHER FINDINGS: BEQUESTS, DEFERRED GIVING, AND ENDOWMENTS

1. As might be expected, there is a high degree of random variation in the amount of voluntary support from individuals received in the form of bequests. This factor was responsible for a large part of the upturn in total voluntary support in 1970-71, since reported bequests rose from $185.7 million in 1969-70 to $266.0 million in 1970-71, an increase of 43.3%. This is the largest year-to-year movement in this figure since 1964-65, and by a very wide margin. The dollar total of bequests amounted to 17.6% of the grand total of voluntary support; this compares with 12.6% in the previous year. In relation to the total support received from individuals, bequests accounted for well over one-third; this is the highest proportion on record during the last ten years. That the increase was widespread is shown by the fact that bequests as a percentage of support from all individuals rose for all classes of institutions except men's colleges, municipal colleges and universities, and junior colleges.

The total of annuities, life contracts, insurance policies, and other forms of deferred giving amounted to $30.1 million in 1970-71, a drop of 11.7% from the $34.1 million reported in 1969-70. As a share of total voluntary support, such giving declined from 2.3% to 2.0%, and as a share of total support from individuals, it declined from 5.0% in 1969-70 to 3.9% in 1970-71.

2. In the 1970-71 Survey, 1,007 colleges and universities furnished data on the book value of their endowment funds, as compared to 977 providing such information in 1969-70. Figures on the market value of endowments were supplied by 918 institutions in 1970-71 versus 882 in 1969-70.

	Book Value	Market Value
1970-71	$9,421,470,510 (1,007 institutions)	$11,325,350,815 (918 institutions)
1969-70	$9,730,278,868 (977 institutions)	$ 9,199,401,044 (882 institutions)
% Change	-3.2%	+23.1%

The major private universities accounted for 52.2% of the book value and 55.6% of the market value of all endowments reported in 1970-71; the corresponding proportions for 1969-70 were 51.1% and 56.5%, respectively.

The comparable figures for the independent secondary and elementary schools were as follows:

	Book Value	Market Value
1970-71	$414,236,445 (285 institutions)	$528,151,006 (279 institutions)
1969-70	$414,468,294 (276 institutions)	$405,235,494 (253 institutions)
% Change	-0.1%	+30.3%

3. The total amount of corporate support received through employee gift matching programs was $7,170,586 for the 1,080 colleges and universities tabulated. The total dollar figure for this source of support has risen every year since the data were first tabulated in 1966-67, and the overall gain for the four-year period is 70%. This growth reflects both an increase in the total number of gifts matched and an increase in the size of the average gift matched. The gain in the number of gifts matched, however, is roughly equivalent to the growth in the number of companies known to have matching gift programs. As shown in a separate report,^o the rate of participation by employees eligible to participate in these programs has been relatively constant at about two percent. This is significantly less than the proportion of corporate employees who are college graduates.
